Subject: Refuse Storage SPD Consultation

Dear Sirs

I have read the information relating to this subject and think that it is absolutely essential for storage areas to be included in the design statement for new houses. As houses are becoming smaller and more cramped and built in ever closer proximity with less and less outside space, there must be spaces allocated for hygienic refuse storage to avoid the eyesore of bins bulging with rubbish outside houses front doors. Quite apart from the hygiene implications of rubbish stored outside front doors and sitting room windows for two weeks during summer weather!
