Comment: It may be too late to add to my previous comment but I have been shocked to read some of the other comments, [REDACTED]

[REDACTED] which are in no way pertinent to the application.

Many of the objections include inaccuracies and are based on false assumptions about the applicant, his business and the building itself. The most obvious example is the repeated claim and conjecture that there are water and sewerage problems on site, which is completely inaccurate. The factual inaccuracies repeated in various objections should not go unchallenged and uncorrected in determining the outcome of this application.
